Franz Liszt's violin works are essential 19th century Romantic repertoire. It is scarcely credible that such a significant body of work by such a major composer should have remained in total obscurity for so long; in fact, these extraordinary pieces have never been issued together. These works traverse Liszt's whole composing life, encompassing great virtuoso concert pieces and wonderfully intimate miniatures. They show a serious effort to come to grips with what a solo violin might accomplish, while demonstrating a deep and affecting skill in the art of duo writing.
