And now it's a fun book for your coffee table to help break the ice at dinner parties. Or for intellectually stimulating bathroom reading. The possibilities are endless!The only thing that would make this book better are footnotes with citations for said trivia. But maybe that's just me.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy LI mom of 2Great book for all ages to enjoy0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Have it with you when the risk of empty air is aboutBy C. BradenBathroom book, fun stuff (one liners per page) trivia most of us don't know. Conversation starters, maybe, if it is a lull in the conversation.

Jump-start any conversation with this collection of over 350 fascinating, little-known facts. Hand-drawn speech bubbles and a charming conversationalist add personality to memorable tidbits on everything from the number of shipping containers lost at sea (about one per hour!) to now-retired Twinkie flavors (banana cream). Who knew that any month beginning on a Sunday will have a Friday the 13th? Or that there are more cell phones in the world than toothbrushes? Engaging and addictive, this is trivia with character.

Holiday Gift Guide Pick "Did you know that karaoke is Japanese for 'empty orchestra'? Or that cat urine glows under a black light? These are just some of the tidbits you'll learn about in Chapman's witty book, the perfect gift for anyone who likes to show off random bits of knowledge at the dinner table."-Men's Journal
