Mindy Kaling : Questions I Ask When I Want to Talk About Myself: 50 Topics to Share with Friends before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Questions I Ask When I Want to Talk About Myself: 50 Topics to Share with Friends:

49 of 52 people found the following review helpful. Just excerpts from the book. By Sunny M. Purdin I got this because I loved Mindy Kaling's book, Is Everyone Hanging Out Without Me? (And Other Concerns). These are just excerpts from that book that are slightly changed. At the end she tacks on a question relating to the text. For example, she recalls the story of being twice the size of a schoolmate, then asks, "Were you ever twice the size of a friend? What was that like?" It's a shame because I liked the book so much, but I will stick to The Book of Questions, because these questions just didn't allow for any true conversation. 6 of 6 people found the following review helpful. but still funny. By David R. These are mostly just excerpts from her books. A little bit disappointing, but still funny. 2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. because I love Mindy Kaling By Meganmh I was really excited about this, because I love Mindy Kaling, but it is just ok. The stories weren't that exciting and it didn't really inspire any deep conversations.

Mindy Kaling loves to talk (Rainn Wilson has dubbed her The Office flibbertigibbet) and she loves to listen (back when she was babysitting for a living, her charges found in her an enthusiastic sounding-board for listing the pros and cons of marrying each band member of N Sync). In this deck of conversation starters, Mindy discusses her views on 50 witty and relatable subjects, along with accompanying questions to get you and your friends talking about things that really matter (best friend rights and responsibilities, how guys have to do almost nothing to be great, and other universal truths).

About the Author MINDY KALING is an Emmy-nominated writer and actress on NBC's The Office. She is also the creator and star of a new show, FOX's The Mindy Project. You can find her on Twitter (@mindykaling), or at her desk pretending to be writing a screenplay but actually online shopping with a memorized credit card number. She resides in Los Angeles. Her billing zip code is 90067.
