Ebert's Movie Yearbook 2007 By Brian Dominic D'Monte I have been an avid Roger Ebert fan for many years, and have purchased many of his books from ; this one is no exception and has fulfilled all my expectations! Would like to know when the 2008 edition is likely to be published? 6 of 7 people found the following review helpful. An Old Reliable By Nat BoI find Roger Ebert's reviews an indispensible resource for ordering video rentals. He'll always give you a good, well written summary and review of any recent movies you're interested in. This latest '07 edition matches the excellence you've come to expect in this series. 14 of 18 people found the following review helpful. YET ANOTHER GREAT EDITION By GeValero Roger's absence for the last 5 or so months only makes you value this book more. Not being able to get his opinion before going to a movie or even missing his bi-weekly Answer Man column has pretty much driven me nuts. Here's hoping his recovery goes by quickly !

Roger Ebert's writing made him the first film critic to win the Pulitzer Prize for criticism, in 1975. In that year he also began reviewing films on television, on the show for which he was awarded his own star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame. In his 2007 YEARBOOK, America's favourite movie critic assesses the year's films from Brokeback Mountain to Wallace Gromit: The Curse of the Were-Rabbit. ROGER EBERT'S MOVIE YEARBOOK 2007 includes every review by Ebert written in the 30 months from January 2004 through June 2006 - about 650 in all. Also included in the Yearbook, which is about 65 percent new every year, are: * Interviews with newsmakers such as Philip Seymour Hoffman, Terrence Howard, Stephen Spielberg, Ang Lee, Heath Ledger, Nicolas Cage, and more. * All the new questions and answers from his Questions for the Movie Answer Man columns. * Daily film festival coverage from Cannes, Toronto, Sundance, and Telluride. * Essays on film issues and tributes to actors and directors who died during the year.

About the Author Roger Ebert is nationally syndicated in America as the film critic for the Chicago Sun-Times and co-host of the television programme Ebert Roper.
